THE MERRY WAR

Of Saloonkeepers Bids Fair to End in Complications.

A MEETING HELD YESTERDAY

Afternoon by Liquor Men whose Trade Has Been Injured by the War on Water Street—Breweries Will Be Asked to Boycott the "Big Glass" Saloonists—One Man Says He Will Continue to Sell the Big Glasses—Fate of Outside Beer.

The war among the saloonists of Water street, brought about by the introduction of what is claimed to be so big a glass of beer for five cents that there is no profit for the saloonist, may end in complications that will extend to the local breweries.

Yesterday afternoon in McLaughlin's hall, corner of Water and Twelfth streets, a meeting of the saloon men of the city was held for the purpose of taking steps toward stopping the "war" and restoring traffic in beer to its normal conditions. The meeting was very well attended, and resulted in the appointment of a committee of three to wait on the Water street saloonists and request them to retire the big glasses, which contain from eighteen to twenty-five ounces of the lager. The committee was successful in its mission at all but one of the places on the front thoroughfare. This saloonist claimed that his big glass is not such a big glass after all and that it contains sixteen ounces. The ordinary glass is said to contain sixteen ounces. He claims that the saloonists on Water street should be allowed to sell a little more beer for a nickel than their brethren on Market street, who have so many more customers, naturally.

It is said that unless the breweries compel the Water street men to come off their big glass perch, the majority of the saloon men of the city will combine to bring in an outside beer. It is said that already enough have clubbed together to use an entire carload of beer daily. "Aside from this fight," said a saloonist last night, "the Wheeling breweries are getting more for their beer than we would have to pay for Cincinnati beer, for instance. Cincinnati beer can be bought for $4 a barrel and Wheeling beer costs us $5."

In the meantime, the aggregate beer consumption of the town is on a vast increase.

THE OIL OUTLOOK

Is Anything but Bright—Poor Prospect for Another Sistersville Field.

A group of oil men were discussing the probable location of the next oil field and one of them gave it as his opinion that it would be in the Big Injun territory and not far from Marietta, on the West Virginia side of the river, says "D. S. W." the well known Pittsburgh expert. Several wells have been pumping salt water and a little oil in that territory for almost a year and the man with an opinion thought it would be only a matter of time until the territory would be producing oil in paying quantities. The past year has been remarkable only for the small pools discovered and the short time it required to define their producing limits.

First was the Delist pool, in Monroe county, then the Kyle and Bullman pools, in Tyler county, and the Colerain pool, in Belmont county. All were low-southwest attractions that claimed the attention of many operators for a time, but all of them have been effectually disposed of and none of them came up to the expectations of those who played them to win. The Cow Run sand development, at Waverly, was another discovery of the past year, and it has joined the others. The Berea grit, or Ogden pool, has been fairly well defined, but shows considerable activity at this time.

In the upper fields, the Ceell pool caused the greatest excitement, but it lasted but a few months. The Hopper fourth sand development, the Economy strikes and the Hardy third sand streak, north of Wildwood, have received some attention. The last named and the Rosebury pool, west of Parker, are still active, but of all the new pools mentioned, none exceeded more than 20,000 barrels a day, and that only for a brief period.

When compared with McDonald and its 84,000 barrels a day when at its zenith, or Sistersville with its 24,000 barrels a day, it will readily be seen that all of the discoveries of the past year have been small.

A HOME MISSIONARY.

Miss Spencer, whose field is in West Virginia, to speak in Wheeling.

There will be services at the Second Presbyterian church, Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. The evening service promises to be of great interest, as Miss M. P. Spencer, who is a missionary in the mountains of West Virginia, and who is visiting Dr. Harriet B. Jones, is to speak of the work in the mountains. It had been arranged to hold a meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the three churches, also the King's Daughters and Christian Endeavor Societies, in the First church, but owing to the Second church being open it has been decided to hold a grand Home Missionary rally of the three churches in the latter. The Home Missionary Societies, King's Daughters and Christian Endeavor Societies are all requested to meet in the Second church, Twentieth and Market streets. The meeting will begin at 7:45 p. m.
